Ellenville Youths Make Confession Of Robberies

Arrest of Webb Gash, Ernest Van Demark and Bradford Meyer has Cleaned up Ellenville Burglaries—All Held For Grand Jury In $500 Bail.

Through a clever bit of detective work on the part of Troopers Ross and Waldron, who are stationed at Ellenville, it is believed that the gang which has been committing a number of small robberies in the village has been cleaned up. Three young men of the village, Webb Gash, Ernest Van Demark and Bradford Meyer were placed under arrest last week and confessed to having entered five places in the village. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Van R. Moffatt of Ellenville and held to await the action of the grand jury. All were released under $500 bail.

Ellenville during the past two months has suffered from a series of burglaries and while at none of the places reported articles of great value were missed still it kept the residents of the village in an uncertain mind lest their premises be entered and something of value taken. Troopers Ross and Waldron were first notified of a burglary at the residence of Frank Cox, who was in the south. The caretaker of the premises reported that the place had been entered but no list of missing articles could be furnished. Next the coal office of Harold Gillette was entered and $3.33 in money and a Spanish automatic revolver was missing. This was followed by a robbery at a gas station where evidently nothing of value was taken.

During the investigation a storekeeper was interviewed by the troopers and he informed them that a spurious coin had been passed by a young man. He did not have the coin but informed the troopers who had passed the money. Webb Gash was interviewed and confessed that another had burglarized several places. He charged Van Demark with being his companion and also informed the troopers that they had entered five places. Two of the places which were entered had not been reported to the authorities. One of the places which they claimed to have entered was the John R. Hunt Corporation warehouse, wholesale grocery concern. As a result of Gash's confession the troopers placed under arrest Van Demark, who also confessed to having been in the deals. The two also in their confession stated that Bradford Meyer was the third member of the party and he was placed under arrest and later confessed.

Investigation at the Hunt property mentioned in the confession revealed the fact that the burglary had not been reported and this job had evidently been unnoticed by employees. Practically all of the property taken including some watches, rings, a pearl necklace and some old coins were secured by the officials and returned. It was one of the old coins which had been taken which led to the arrests. Gash after his arrest stated he had thrown the run which was taken from the coal office into the Sandburn creek. He continued to tell this story after his arrest and confession and stuck to it until it was suggested that he be taken to the creek for a swim and search for the gun. The gun was then produced and brought to the troopers by the boy's father. All three of the lads bear a good reputation in the village and have not been in any difficulty before. Gash was arrested on Thursday and the other two the following day.

Britain Denies Offer From Italy

Proposal Said to Have Been Offered by Premier Mussolini Denied by British Foreign Office—Fresh Complications Over Germany.

By Telegram to The Freeman. London, March 23.—Premier Mussolini of Italy has offered Great Britain a security pact which would exclude France, according to a Paris dispatch to the Daily Chronicle. England has rejected the proposal, the dispatch stated, but France is aroused over Mussolini's move.

Security pact negotiations were gaining momentum today. The French ambassador, M. Flouriou, has returned to Paris to report to Premier Herriot on the situation. Austen Chamberlain, secretary of state for foreign affairs, will report to the House of Commons tomorrow on the progress made thus far.

The foreign office denied the Chronicle story of Mussolini's supposed offer and stated that security pact negotiations still were in the formative stage and were being conducted through diplomatic channels, with Berlin and Paris.

Britain has asked Germany to elucidate further her part offer.

The German embassy has cleared up some of the points of the German proposal with the announcement of Germany's intention to join the League of Nations. Britain is inclined to consider the German proposal favorably, but Poland's objection will have to be met. It is based on Germany's willingness to guarantee her western borders, but reluctant to guarantee her eastern borders, preferring to submit any dispute there to arbitration.

Poland is an ally of France, therefore Premier Herriot finds himself in a dilemma as a result of the German plan.

Legislature on Its Last Round

Closing Days Expected To Be The Tamest In Years—Wet and Dry Fight To Be Settled—Smith Expected To Win Grade Crossing Fight.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, March 23.—The Legislature started on its last lap today.

The final gavel will fall in both houses next Friday night. The closing days of the session are expected to be the tamest in years. Usually the last few days are accompanied by long night sessions. This year things are going off smoothly and only a few important problems remain to be settled.

Governor Smith has won his fight for tax reduction and a bill providing for a 25 per cent cut in the state income tax will be passed. The Republican leaders still insist that the governor, in order to make the tax cut possible, rejected appropriations that should be made this year.

The wet and dry fight may be put off until the last day of the session. The Wales-Jenks state-wide prohibition enforcement bill, which has passed the Assembly, is on the calendar for final passage in the upper house. It will be defeated, the wets insist, by the votes of Senators Karle, Nicoll, Whitely and Lipowicz, all Republicans. If these four vote with the Democratic senators it will make a total of 26 votes against the bill. That will leave the drys with one vote short of passing the bill.

Governor Smith is also expected to win his fight for his $200,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of grade crossings. There are enough votes in the Senate to adopt the governor's proposal. What will happen in the Assembly depends upon Speaker McGinnies, the Republican leader, but he is expected to allow the proposal to pass. If adopted it will be submitted to the voters at the election this fall.

A few days ago there was every indication the governor's proposal was dead so far as the present session was concerned. The joint committee which investigated grade crossings submitted a report which declared the governor's plan was "unworkable." But the governor got busy and things began to happen, with the result that many of the Republicans in both houses are changing their minds about the proposal.

Virtually every measure recommended by the governor in his message, with the exception of water-power development, has been killed by the Republican Assembly on motions to discharge. The Senate has defeated the governor's anti-trust bill.

Speaker McGinnies of the Assembly today stands out as the Republican leader at the Capitol.

WILL GUARD LOW RAILROAD ON TRIP TO JERUSALEM

By Telegram to The Freeman. Cairo, March 23.—Preparations to protect Lord Balfour on his visit to Jerusalem were taken today on the eve of his arrival here.

Arabian sentiment runs high against the former foreign secretary because of his announcement of British approval of Jewish colonization in Palestine. The line of travel to Jerusalem is under guard. Armored cars and machine guns have been sent to Palestine.

COURT OF INQUIRY FOR GROUND SINKING

By Telegram to The Freeman. Boston, March 23.—A naval court of inquiry opened here today to determine the cause of the sinking of the U. S. submarine S-19 off Cape Cod. The submarine was reported from the water after a two-months' battle. The $4,000,000 craft, which was not seriously damaged, went ashore during a calm. It is being overhauled by the navy.

Trial for Girl Who Slew Mother

By Telegram to The Freeman. San Francisco, Cal., March 23.—Dorothy Ellison, 16 year old "jazz baby," was to go on trial today for the murder of her mother.

Attorneys for the girl, backed by an imposing array of alienists, were prepared to fight for her liberty.

Dorothy arose early today at the county jail and donned the dress she wore at her preliminary hearing. One of those she hastily packed and carried with her when she fled from the cottage in which she shot her mother following a reprimand for staying out late the night before.

Psychiatrists, psychologists, medical experts and pathologists will all be called by the defense in an effort to show that Dorothy was unable to resist the impulse.

Selection of a jury was expected to require the greater part of today and possibly all of tomorrow.

Grave Reforms Urged to Check Child Marriage

Russell Sage Foundation Tells of Steps Necessary to Prevent Juvenile Weddings—Proof of Age Should be Required.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, March 23.—There is need for important reforms in the marriage laws and their administration, either or both in practically every state in the United States, according to a 150 page report on "Child Marriages," issued here today by the Russell Sage Foundation as the result of a several years' investigation extending into 90 cities in practically every section of the country.

The report, which was prepared by Mary E. Richmond, under whose direction the study was conducted, with the collaboration of Fred S. Hall, takes the position that at this stage reforms must be effected state by state. The report calls for the following ten steps toward a solution of this problem:

1. Work toward a reasonable and enforceable minimum marriageable age law; the minimum for girls should be at least 16; in many states it is still 12.

2. Procure in states which now are without it a law requiring five days' advance notice of intention to marry; such a law is now in operation in eight states.

Stop Gretna Greens.

Put the marriage market town out of business; there are at least 40 notorious Gretna Greens where the exploitation and commercialization of marriage are responsible for numerous child marriages.

4. Through cooperation with the adjoining states to discourage hasty marriages across the state border, where out-of-town marriages are railroaded through either at the license office or the justice of the peace office, or both.

5. Know the work of your license issuers, so that the difficulties with which they are now contending may be brought to light and that they may be encouraged to use the discretion which the laws of many states now empower them to exercise.

6. Destroy the fee system; in so far as the system of fees in lieu of salaries to license issuers survives, it interferes with the disinterested character of their service.

Proof of Age.

7. Strengthen requirements as to proof of age of applicants for marriage licenses; at present no proof of age is required in most marriage license offices and the practice of accepting affidavits leads to falsification by applicants and sometimes by their parents, making possible the marriage of children 11, 12, 13 and 14 years of age.

8. Substitute better evidence of age for affidavits; no other form of evidence is so unsatisfactory. Aside from birth and baptismal certificates 16 other forms of documentary evidence of age are suggested in the report.

9. Require both applicants for a marriage license to appear in person before the license issuer.

10. Harmonize the different state laws in which a minimum age is required; the minimum marriageable age should not be lower than the minimum working age, and the compulsory school attendance law should be made to apply to both.

Adoption of such reforms, says the report, would act as a check upon those parents who are willing to marry off their boys and girls when they are still children. What is more important, they would protect other parents who never know when some desperate person or impulse of the moment may spirit away the immature child or boy from the home and make the child the victim of an administrative system which is without proper safeguards.

More Disabled By Tuberculosis Than Accidents

Insanity Ranks Second, Then Cancer, Paralysis and Nervous Diseases, Figures Show—8,000 Cases Analyzed by Actuaries.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Newark, N. J., March 23.—Accidents, contrary to the general assumption, cut relatively a small figure among causes of disability resulting in complete and permanent loss of earning power. On the other hand, tuberculosis, against which vigorous campaigns have been waging for years, still stands out as the major cause.

Actuarial statisticians of the Prudential Insurance Company of America have found, in analyzing approximately 8,000 disability claims approved during the last ten years, that disabilities directly or indirectly due to accidents made up only 3.4 per cent of the whole, whereas tuberculosis was responsible for 41.2 per cent, or almost half.

Loss of sight or of limbs, attributable in some cases also to accident, but mainly the result of disease, accounted for an additional 2.4 per cent.

Next to tuberculosis insanity ranked as the greatest cause of disability. More than 1,400 cases were charged to it, with a percentage of 18.4.

Next were cancer, with 10.3; paralysis, with 8; nervous disease, 4; and derangements of the circulatory system, 3.3 per cent.

The cases examined included only those in which disability was considered total and permanent. Nevertheless the records show that about 340 of the disabled insured recovered, a fact ascribed by the investigators as partly due to the advances made in the treatment of disabling diseases, principally tuberculosis.

McClintock Death Probe Postponed

Famous "Typhoid Murder" Case in Chicago Takes New Turn—Plea for One of Accused Men on Ground of Serious Illness.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Chicago, Ill., March 23.—The inquiry into the death of William Nelson McClintock at which Judge Harry Olson, "counsel for the dead," has declared he would introduce "new and startling evidence," was postponed indefinitely here today to leave the field clear for the resumed hearing of William D. Shepherd's motion for bail.

A new plea for freedom, the plea of illness, was made for Shepherd as the investigation connecting him with the alleged "typhoid murder" of McClintock, his foster-son, by whose death he inherited more than $1,500,000, was resumed.

Shepherd, his counsel said to bring out in the hearing of their motion for bail, is a dangerously sick man, a sufferer from diabetes. Confinement in jail, while awaiting trial on the indictment charging him and "Dr." Charles C. Fauman with murder of McClintock's death, may result fatally, thus perhaps bringing virtual execution to an innocent man.

On this and another contention that the state's case against Shepherd is untenable, that the indictment illegally defines typhoid fever as a poison, and that Fauman, the principal witness against him, has a questionable reputation, they will make their fight for their client's release, recalling Fauman to the witness stand to repeat his story of accusation from which they will aim to discredit him.

When the inquiry is resumed, Judge Olson will attempt to fasten other charges on Shepherd. Olson asserts he has evidence which will show that others were implicated in what he declares was a years' conspiracy to obtain the McClintock fortune.

Among the new witnesses who will be called is known to be Charles D. Wirick. He is to tell what he knows of the life of Shepherd and his wife in Salina, Kansas. In particular he is to be asked about the death there of Otto Graf, a brother of Mrs. Shepherd.

The inquiry also will be directed into the deaths of Mrs. McClintock, Billy's mother, and Dr. Oscar Olson, Judge Olson's brother, which the judge maintains, occurred under unusual circumstances.

Mrs. Shepherd may be called as a witness, although she once refused to testify "on advice of counsel." Today she was in seclusion under guard in the Kenilworth home where Billy McClintock died. She called on police for protection after receipt of a threatening letter.

Shepherd appeared in the heat of spirits when he appeared at the hearing today. Sunday he attended the jail church services, sitting between a burglar and a "hoodlum."

Mystery Shrouds Banker's Death

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, March 23.—An autopsy will be held by the medical examiner today into the mysterious death of Louis S. Frankenhimer, 74-year-old banker, who told of a brutal attack by bandits before he died.

Frankenhimer's watch and keys had not been stolen, although no money was found on his person when he died. Friends said he was accustomed to carrying large sums of money.

The aged banker drove up to his home at 270 Park avenue, called for the hall boy to pay his taxi and staggered into his apartment.

Half an hour after he retired he called for a doctor and told him a band of thugs had attacked him at Eightieth street and Park avenue, choked and robbed him and "threw him over a fence to die."

Frankenhimer died shortly afterward.

Business Decline Shown by Three Big Corporations

Reports of U. S. Steel, General Motors and Bethlehem Steel Show Net Incomes and Profits Considerably Smaller in 1924.

By Telegram to The Freeman. New York, March 23.—Reports of 1924 operations and earnings submitted today by three of the largest American corporations, United States Steel, General Motors and Bethlehem Steel, confirmed what has already been known about the general decline of business in this country last year.

These three representative corporations suffered in the first place by a shrinkage of total volume of business as compared with 1923, placing the first handicap on their ability to show as large profits as in the preceding year. Heavy operating expenses scaled down their net incomes and profits were considerably smaller. The following comparisons are significant:

United States Steel.

1924—Gross income, $1,263,711,000; net income, $194,221,974.
1923—Gross income, $1,571,414,000; net income, $128,176,519.
Earned per share common—1924, 11.77; 1923, 16.42.

General Motors.

1924—Gross income, $568,007,453; net income, $45,330,887.
1923—Gross income, $698,038,947; net income, $62,067,525.
Earned Per Share—1924, 7.37; 1923, 10.69.

Bethlehem Steel.

1924—Gross income, $243,904,265; net income, $3,916,181.
1923—Gross income, $275,213,152; net income, $14,374,152.
Earned Per Share—1924, 2.56; 1923, 5.58.

The summaries of last year's operations by Chairman Schwab of Bethlehem, Gary of United States Steel, and Du Pont of the General Motors, point to the fact that after operating the year auspiciously, business last year ran into a slump in the spring and summer and made a good recovery in last quarter. Thus the United States Steel opened the year operating at 86 per cent of capacity and declined gradually to 55 per cent of capacity in the fourth, recovering to 69 per cent in the fourth. Bethlehem opened the year at 74 per cent of capacity, dropped to 31 per cent and recovered to 89 per cent.

Notwithstanding the decline in earnings these corporations were able to materially strengthen their financial position, the chairman of General Motors announcing that that corporation ended the year with its financial condition the best in its history. This will put them in a position to take advantage of any general increase in demand for their products.

CHAPMAN GOES ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

By Telegram to The Freeman. Hartford, Conn., March 23.—The stage was set here today for the opening of the trial of Gerald Chapman, bandit extraordinary, on a charge of first degree murder arising from the death of a New Britain policeman who was shot and killed by a burglar surprised in a department store in that city on October 12 last.

Chapman, who twice escaped from the Federal prison at Atlanta, and who was finally recaptured in Mexico, Ind., faces the death penalty if he is convicted.

Chapman will be taken to the court house daily from the state prison at Wethersfield under heavy guard to prevent any possible rescue attempt and guards will cover the court house during the sessions of the trial.

Attack Opens on Rail Merger

Chesapeake & Ohio Stockholder Seeks to Intervene, Claiming Van Sweringen Plan Has Grossly Misrepresented Conditions to Dissatisfied Stockholders.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, March 23.—The first attack on the plan of the Van Sweringen interests to acquire control by lease of five big railroad systems, was made before the interstate commerce commission today by Albert I. Stiles of New York, in a petition to intervene in the merger project.

Stiles, who is an engineer and a holder of common stock in the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, assailed the proposed merger plan, claiming that the promoters had grossly misrepresented the value of the stock of the dissatisfied shareholders.

Stiles told the commission that the distribution of stock of the new company is "grossly disproportionate to the present and potential earning powers of the railroads involved on the basis of past years fairly balanced and appraised, requires the Chesapeake and Ohio to contribute 48 per cent of the consolidated earnings of the new company with a benefit of but 29 per cent of the same."

Stiles further said that the plan of the promoters to buy the stock of any dissatisfied stockholders who dissent and demand payment in cash, by paying therefor the average market value of the shares for the six months next preceding the day of meeting of Chesapeake and Ohio stockholders was also unfair. The value so fixed, he said, probably will be less than $110 a share for preferred and less than $100 for common, whereas the true value of the stock is upwards of $200 and $150, respectively.

Judge Bondy's decision will allow the Mount Vernon company to resume its soda water manufacture at the end of the two months' period.

The Kuhlman brewery has a capacity of 10,000 barrels of beer per year. It was established in 1858 and formerly did a large business in the Catskill and Adirondack mountains region.

Popular Ensemble Promises to Stay

Combination Mode Continues to Hold Its Own With Spring Fashions.

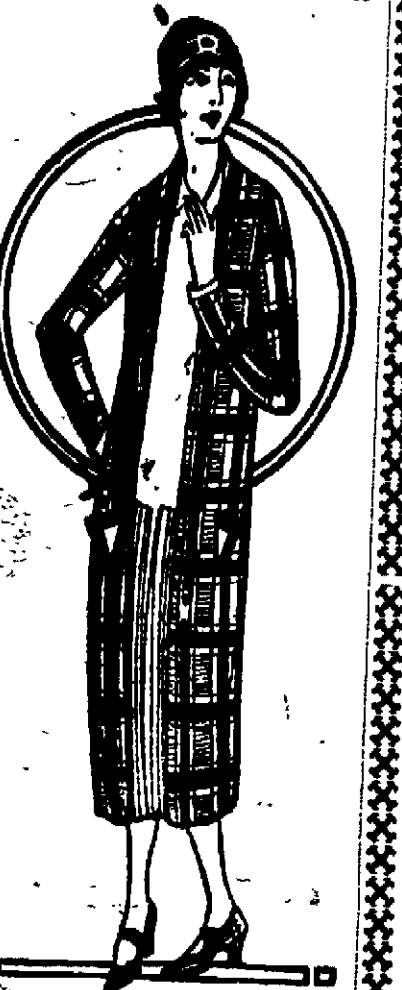

Another fashion season is at hand, and still the ensemble continues to hold its own. Its prestige has in no wise lessened; rather one might say that it has increased. And it is not difficult to understand its success and popularity, for there are so many different interpretations, each one smart and each one distinctive.

Perhaps the most interesting thing about the latest costumes of the ensemble genre is the combination of materials. Silk is used with wool, leather as put together with silk, knitted fabrics are combined with woven materials, and there is quite as much versatility in the colors and designs as in the texture of the fabrics.

A costume which is a sample of the spring modes is the ensemble, which consists of a frock of plaid or striped silk and a coat of kasha or one of the kindred fabrics. Almost invariably the coat is lined with the same material that fashions the frock.

As an illustration of this mode a most attractive model reverses the usual order of things, for the dress is of natural color kasha, while the coat is of a heavy crepe silk with brown and yellow plaids on a natural tone ground. Kasha lines the coat and adds the warmth which is so often necessary.

Of particular interest is another suit. In this the straight little one-piece frock is of blue and white plaid tub silk and the coat of powder-blue kasha lined with the silk. Around the neck and finishing the short set-in sleeves of the dress, there is an inch-wide band of kasha and a band of the same width extends in front from neck to hem. A collar of gray fur and round silver buttons contribute to the chic of the coat.

Printed Fabrics Are in Spring Fashion Picture

A certain feminine daintiness achieved by the use of filmy chiffon and gossamer, much delicate lace and colors of the pastel tones, is an important point emphasized in the new fashions for early spring.

"Not only is the trend toward more subtle colorings evident in frocks of plain fabrics, but printed materials reveal a similar tendency to exploit the delicate tones of rose, pink, blue, lavender and pale green.

Quite lovely are the new frocks of printed chiffon with prim little flower designs or large blurry patterns. These are, as a rule, untrimmed, relying for individuality upon the way the material itself is handled.

Another fashion note which should be kept in mind, for future use if not for immediate purposes, is that cretonnes is to be used for the smartest costumes. It is, however, a cretonne glorified almost beyond recognition by stitchery in silk and metal thread and by fine beading.

Dresses, coats, bathing suits with knee-length coats to match, are made of cretonne and the necessary beach umbrella, also of this fabric, is shaped like a Japanese parasol.

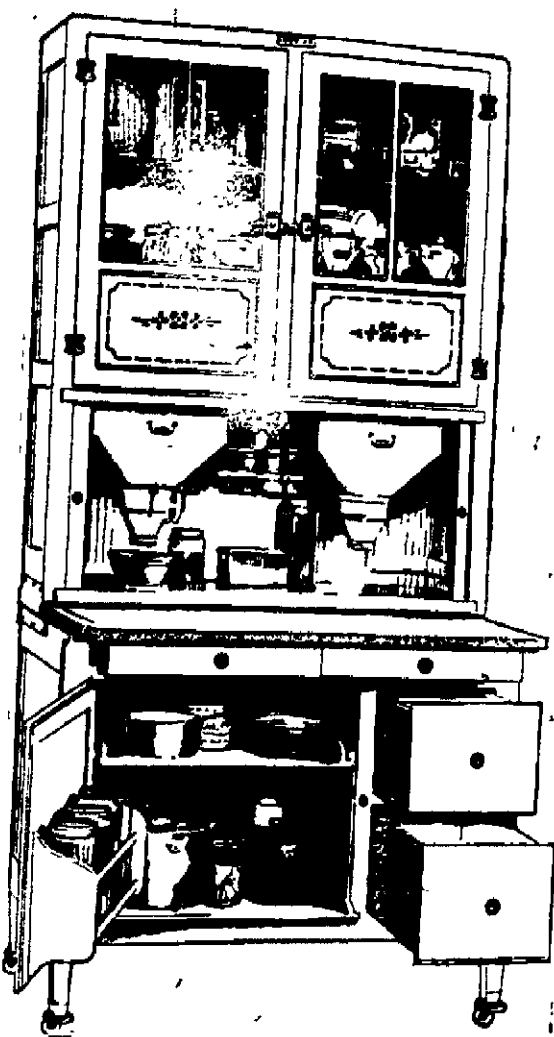

Shaped Like Helmet
Some of the new silken and pique small hats for spring are so nearly the shape of the helmet of the Lunatic Asylum that they have been formally christened "bobs." The brims, however, turn up instead of down and are frequently trimmed with leather bands and buckles.

A New Combination
Black, white and gold is the attractive combination exemplified in one ensemble suit. It consists of a plaid skirt and long coat with a slightly fitted back, swished collar and flap pockets of navy blue cretonne. The coat is worn over an overcoat of white silk, embroidered in gold.

A real achievement—that's what experts are calling the new 1925 Hoosier Highboy. They say it is the most wonderful piece of kitchen furniture ever created. And it is!

Never before has there been a kitchen cabinet so beautiful—with so many conveniences and energy-saving devices. These are its six new features.

New combination glass and wood panel doors. An entirely new decorative touch is given by combining glass and wood panels in the upper double doors. These doors are fitted with handy metal and wood racks. On one, a single rack for extract bottles, on the other a triple tray for change, milk checks, etc.

A new-type flour bin. A new flour bin with shaker sifter attached, providing ample capacity for all ordinary needs, is suspended from the lower shelf. It is accessible, removable and easily filled. A porcelain storage bin conveniently located provides an additional 50-lb. capacity if needed.

Enlarged shelf storage space. This arrangement offers unequalled storage capacity above—uncluttered roomy shelves, full twelve inches deep, give a total storage space never before possible.

Genuine porcelain storage drawer. The big lower drawer of porcelain is now converted into a wonderful storage bin. It is entirely enclosed, making a light, moist-proof, dust-proof receptacle for flour, potatoes, winter vegetables or for staple fruits such as apples, oranges, etc.

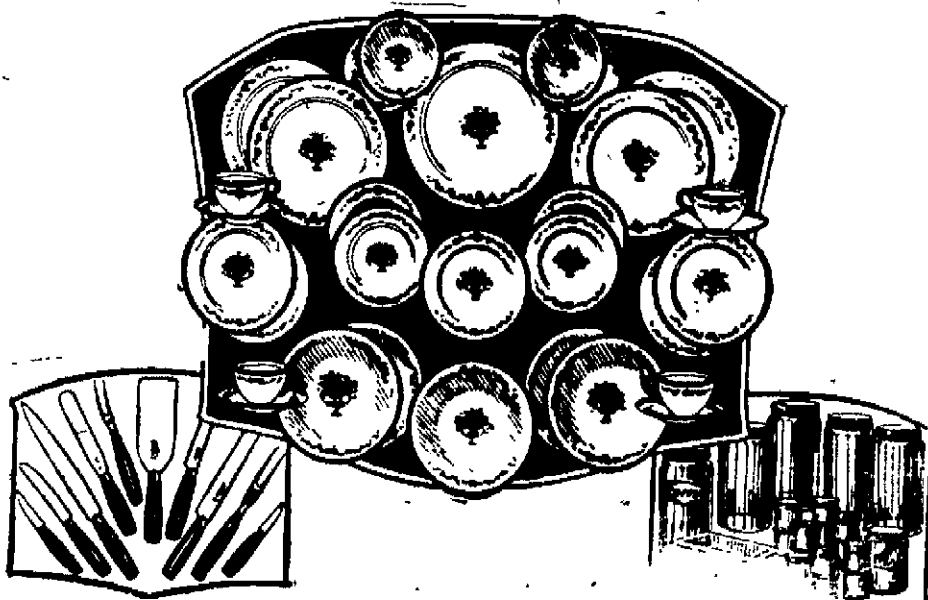

Genuine porcelain bread and cake box. Just above the storage drawer is another drawer for bread and cake—the finest and most convenient bread box ever designed.

Sliding cutting board. Over the bread and cake box is a new sliding cutting board of rock maple, placed just where you would logically use it.

These, remember are new features. The Highboy has also the porcelain work table, velvet-lined silverware drawer and dozens of other conveniences and devices that for years have made Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets famous.

We have also a limited number of other Hoosier cabinets on which the same liberal special offer applies as long as they last.

THE TEST FOR RENEGADES.

Here is the acid test for the renegade Republican senators who have been excluded from Republican councils and removed from the committee places which they held as Republicans. What would they have done if last fall's election had gone the other way? What would they have done, what would they now be doing, if their own schemes and efforts had been successful; if Mr. Coolidge had been defeated by the throwing of the election into Congress and if a Democratic-La Follette majority had been returned to each House of Congress? That was what they wanted, and worked for. What would they have done had it come to pass? Would they have declared that they were still Republicans, loyally standing with that party in its defeat?

There is not a moron in Moronville who is as enough to believe any such stuff as that. Every one of them would have made haste to renounce all connection with the Republican minority, and to claim recognition and committee appointment as a Radical third party man and thus a member of the Democratic-La Follette coalition. They know that that is what they would have done, what they expected to do, and the country knows it. But now, their calculations having failed, they protest against having to suffer the consequences. They wanted to play a game of "Heads, we win; tails, we don't lose." But such tactics would not work. Even the Democrats, who would have liked nothing better than to defeat the Republicans on a fair issue, revolted against the bad sportsmanship of men unwilling to take their own medicine, and spurned with contempt their supplications for aid.

If these men really want to be again recognized as Republicans, the way is open for them. But it is a clean, straightforward way, not devious and furtive. Let them renounce their recent treason, express repentance for the wrong they have done, declare their reattachment to the Republican party, and show their willingness to pay the penalty of their treachery by beginning again at the foot of the ladder. There is always forgiveness and welcome for the sincere penitent. For the contumacious or the hypocritical, there is none.

The parachute seems to be serving as a means of escape in airplane accidents as effectively as it has served in the case of the balloon. When two aeroplanes collided over Kelly field near San Antonio recently, both aviators grabbed their parachutes, leaped from their doomed airplanes and descended slowly and safely to the ground. The average aviator is said to scorn parachutes, but if these two had not had them ready to hand and used them, they would now be dead men.

After the alarmist pronouncements in this connection, it is agreeably reassuring to hear from the National Aeronautic Association that, after all, the United States "is very distinctly and emphatically first in the air in the excellence of the types of machines developed, in the excellence of the types of aircraft engines developed, and in the excellence of the pilots developed."

Walter Camp, the great teacher of exercise for health, has succumbed to disease at 66. Many men who did no "daily doze" have lived much longer. Of course exercise within reason is a good thing, and there are numerous other good things. But whatever you do or don't do to keep well, you never can tell.

The concerns that sell canned tomatoes will not thank the New Haven Association of Congregational Ministers for announcing as a part of their "week" that "it is unethical for the minister to use canned material prepared by another without acknowledging the source from which it comes."

Walter Lunt, the prominent and witty humorist, is the author of "What Lunt Means" which is now being used by many young American students of Greek. There have been other teachers in the land of such a combination of finance and classical scholarship, but probably nothing of the sort could be found in the annals of Wall street.

In view of the accounts of conditions in Russia, it is hard to understand how the Moscow government can afford to cut agricultural taxes 40 per cent. However, there is more for any treasury in low taxes collected than in high taxes uncollected.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)
MAKING TERMS WITH YOUR BODY.

One of our newspaper writers said a good thing the other day when he suggested that to get along with your fellow man, and with life itself, you should make terms with life. In other words you're here on earth and it is up to you to make the best of it.

He commented favorably on the fact that notwithstanding all the hardships and injustices, very few people give up life in despair. Now just as you have to make terms with life, so also must you make terms with that body of yours.

You didn't choose your body, but had to accept just what you got in the way of brain, muscle and the various organs of the body. Now the whole point of the matter is that if you are going to get the best service from your body, you'll have to make terms with it.

You were given a brain, and fortunately it registers for you, everything that your body does throughout the day.

If you eat more than you should, or of some form of food that disagrees with you, then you suffer for it, and your brain makes note of said pain.

Thereafter you are in a position to know just how much food you can eat, and that there is one particular kind of food that gives you distress.

You work hard, day and night, and try to get along with insufficient sleep. Again your brain tells you that you need more rest.

You find that you have headaches, a nasty taste in the mouth, and that the intestine needs purging by medicines.

And so again your brain, which is really your common sense, tells you that you are not moving your body sufficiently by work or exercise.

In brief, then, it just means that in order to take terms, the best possible terms with that body of yours, you have to just think of the three things—food, sleep and exercise.

Your body will keep going despite all the wrong things you do, but to get all that it can give you in the way of health—buoyant health—you must be willing to make terms with it.

It doesn't demand too much, but it does demand the use of your brain, your common sense.

She Pined the Lion

Uncle had just returned home from an expedition into Africa after 14 years, says the Teller; he was delighted all the family with stirring tales of adventure in the jungle.

"One of my best friends was so savagely bitten by a lion once," he announced, "that he had to have his arm amputated."

There was a short silence while the information sank in, and then the small daughter of the house said in a sympathetic voice:

"What a pity, uncle; the poor lion must have been so hungry."

Ship and Snowshoes

Owing to the thick fogs of America the snowshoes have been found to be more suitable for use than the skis which is preferred in less wooded regions. The large, flat surface of the snowshoes furnishes a larger plane of resistance to the soft snow, and by distributing the weight of the wearer over a larger surface does not break the brittle crust on top of the snow, which means progress without more strenuous exertion.

State Farmers' Planting Plans

"Intentions to Plant" Report Shows Changes From Last Year—Agriculture in New York Well Stabilized.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., March 23.—In line with the general policy of helping to stabilize the production of farm crops, which will be beneficial to both producers and consumers, a statement on the changes in acreage of important crops which farmers intend to make is issued as a combined state and federal report by the New York state department of farms and markets. These figures are based on the reports of many typical farmers for their own farms and represent the plans that they had when reporting. Plans may, of course, change as the season advances, due to unforeseen weather and labor conditions, and to revisions by individual farmers in their own plantings when they see that abnormal changes are likely to take place. In general, the agriculture in New York is so well stabilized that there is less likelihood of large changes in acreage from year to year than there is in some of the states where farming is rapidly going through a period of transition.

The acreage of winter wheat sown last fall in New York was the same as the year before, while in the United States there was an increase of 6 per cent. Spring wheat, grown to only a slight extent in New York, promises an increase of 14 per cent in the United States.

The increase of 4 per cent in corn acreage planned for New York is simply a return to the normal acreage which was curtailed the last two years by the late cold springs. The same is true of oats which farmers now plan to increase 12 per cent. There is a strong tendency to increase barley, particularly in mixtures with oats. For the United States as a whole the intended acreage of corn is 2 per cent greater than last year, oats 6 per cent greater and barley 23 per cent greater. The state buckwheat acreage may increase as much as 5 per cent.

The intentions in New York with respect to potatoes are for a decrease of 7 per cent from last year's acreage of 333,000, mostly in the upstate counties. Long Island growers intend to plant only slightly less than last year. The North Atlantic states now intend to decrease their acreage 7 per cent, the South Atlantic 5 per cent, the North Central 6 per cent, and the United States as a whole 4 per cent. It is pointed out that the very large crop of 1924 was due to an unusually high yield per acre rather than to an excessive acreage.

The intended bean acreage in New York is 8 per cent larger than the 140,000 acres harvested last year and in many cases represents a shift from potatoes to beans. The small United States crop last year was due to a crop failure in the important state of California rather than to any abnormally small acreage.

Hay, which occupies a greater acreage than any other New York crop, will probably decrease 1 per cent in the intentions to plant other crops are carried out. In view of the heavy production last year, and the slight decline in numbers of livestock which has taken place, this is in line with conservative farm practice. The intended acreage of tame hay in the United States is the same as last year.

Leopold Godowsky, world famous pianist, has filed suit against a New York city hotel for $50,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained from scalding water that came from the "cold" tap in his bath. The former Princess Xenia of Russia, now the wife of William B. Leeds, who inherited the fortune of his mother, Princess Anhaltine, widow of the "tin plate" king, is seriously ill in New York from complications that followed the birth of her first baby. A riot was started in the French Chamber of Deputies when Premier Edouard Herriot announced that France was determined to carry out its programme of non-sectarian schools for Alsace. The condition of Premier Benito Mussolini, of Italy, who has been ill for several weeks, has become so grave a triumvirate has been suggested to take over the Government.

Bass Supply Is Decreasing

Should Not be Molested During Spawning Season—Decreasing at a Rate That Threatens Extinction.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, March 23.—In New York state about 400 lakes and streams are stocked annually by the conservation commission with small mouth bass. In the smallest of these lakes at least twenty-five bass nests can be found and if the parent fish are allowed to spawn unmolested and protect the young until they can care for themselves, it means that the lake is stocked annually with 50,000 fry. In a body of water like one of the Finger Lakes, thousands of bass nests can be found every spring. It is evident that nature is handicapped by lack of protection in producing its bass. In normal seasons the bass in New York state waters do not finish spawning until after July 1, and should be protected until that time. The law at present opens most of the waters of the state for bass fishing June 15.

"If the bass fishing is to be maintained," says Sumner M. Cowden, field superintendent of the conservation commission, "the nesting bass must be protected until July and it is believed that in suitable waters they will be able to maintain themselves by natural reproduction. A bill is before the legislature at the present time to close the bass season until July 1. It should be the interest of every sportsman in the state to see that this bill is passed in order to maintain good fishing by giving adequate protection to the bass during the period when they are on the nests.

"It is a known fact today that the number of black bass in the waters of this state is on the decline. The demand is ever increasing and has reached a point far beyond that which nature can supply without better protection than they are getting. The species must be protected or become extinct. Scientists who have made a study of the situation state that the total yearly catch of black bass is so great as compared with the yearly hatch that this, the greatest of American game fishes, is bound to become extinct within ten years unless extraordinary efforts are put forth to protect them.

"The black bass are not susceptible to propagation by artificial methods. The eggs, unlike the eggs of the trout cannot be taken from the female fertilized by the milk of the male and hatched, but reproduction can only take place under natural conditions. The supply of bass furnished by the commission depends upon the natural reproduction of brood fish in the ponds at the hatcheries and the output each year ponds and funds available for fish cultural work.

"At present the commission has two hatcheries where the small-mouth bass are propagated; the Oneida hatchery at Constantia and the St. Lawrence hatchery at Ogdensburg. At each station the brood stock is annually obtained from nearby waters by use of nets or seines. The adults are placed in the rearing ponds where they make their own nests and reproduce under natural conditions. During the period of incubation the male fish hovers over the eggs on the nest maintaining a gentle motion of the fins to keep the eggs free from sediment, while the female acts as an outside guard to the nest constantly patrolling the vicinity. If the parent fish are driven away from the nest, the eggs soon die. After the hatching period when the young fry begin to scatter from the nest in search of food the parent fish are removed from the pond and returned to the waters from which they were taken. The fry are also removed at this time and shipped to various parts of the state for stocking purposes. As the young bass are very cannibalistic, a great loss is realized if they are reared to fingerling size. It is, therefore, the policy of the commission to deliver the young bass as advanced fry.

"The loss from cannibalism among the small basses is undoubtedly greater in the close quarters of the hatchery breeding ponds than among the basses hatched in the larger and natural waters. Nearly every sportsman knows that the large and small-mouth bass protect their nests and guard their young until they are able to forage for themselves and during the protecting period they are very pugnacious and will seize everything dropped near the nest. A bare hook will be taken if dragged near it. No skill is required to capture a parent fish at this time and in taking the guardians it means also the destruction of from 500 to 5,000 eggs or fry. This number of fry far exceeds the average number supplied by the commission to each applicant for stocking.

"The total output of small basses for 1924 was 355,150. The introduction of this number into the waters of the state already inhabited by the same species is a mere trifle as compared with what nature will do if the bass already there are allowed to spawn and protect their young until they are able to care for themselves.

National Radio Farm School

Five Stations to Broadcast Talks Five Days a Week for Benefit of Farmers—Practical Agricultural Problems Foremost.

What will be the first national radio farm school in the world opened its curriculum to the farmers of the United States this afternoon under the auspices of the Farm Service of the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. Lectures will be broadcast over five of the big radio stations of the country—WOC, Davenport, Iowa; WMAQ, Chicago; WHK, Cleveland; KFOV, Omaha; and WDAY, Fargo, North Dakota. The school will be in session five days a week.

Agricultural college professors, experiment station directors, leading experts in all branches of agriculture will be included on the staff of lecturers who will give the farmers the benefit of their knowledge in their daily "Money Making" talks, for the aim of the school is to show the American farmer how he can make more profit with less labor and expense than he is doing today. The program is arranged on a definite schedule that the farmer may know just what day the subject in which he is especially interested will be broadcast. The other days he may "cut classes" if he so desires.

Monday will be "Hog Day." The senior professor in this branch of the school will be John M. Eward, of Iowa State Agricultural College, who is known throughout the nation as the "Hog Man of Ames." He is considered to be the greatest expert on feeding, whose methods, experiments and interpretations of his own and other scientists' achievements have practically revolutionized one of the greatest industries in the middle-west.

Tuesday has been set down as "Poultry Day." The chief of this department will be Prof. A. G. Phillips, head of the poultry department, Purdue University.

Every Wednesday dairying will be the subject. For this branch some of the most noted experts in the country have been obtained. They will include Prof. O. E. Reed, head of the dairy department, Michigan Agricultural College, a widely traveled practical dairyman; Prof. E. H. Kildee, head of the animal husbandry department, Iowa State Agricultural College; Prof. Oscar Eft, in charge of the dairy department of Ohio State University, a leader in the dairy industry because of his insight into the farmers' problems; Dr. C. H. Eckles, head of the dairy department, University of Minnesota, one of the ablest scientists and teachers in the country; Hugh G. Van Pelt, nationally known breeder, feeder and lecturer; Prof. O. F. Hunziker, recognized authority on dairy manufacture, and C. M. Long, chief of farm service, Blue Valley Creamery Institute.

Thursday will be known as "Lecture Day." Professor W. L. Burleigh, Chief of the Agronomy Department, University of Illinois, will lecture on alfalfa while Professor J. C. Hackleman, Crops Extension specialist, University of Illinois, will be broadcast the greatest authority on this subject in the country.

The last day of school Friday will be devoted to a "Question Box" program, when the problems of the farmer-students of the school will be answered. Special lectures also will be arranged for this day, which will include talks by prominent men on subjects for which the members of the Farm School make special requests.

Director Long also announced that a certain number of manuscripts of the radio "Money Making" talks contain more material than actually broadcast were being prepared to be sent to those who enroll in the school before April 1st. In addition to these radio talks, literature of experimental stations, U. S. Government official information and timely articles from the leading agricultural papers also will be mailed to the farm students who enroll within the designated time. Examinations will be held for the enrolled students and certificates issued by the registrar of the school to those who prove their qualifications. The only requirement for admission to the National Radio Farm School is to send in one's name to the registrar.

Clum was so pleasing that Mr. Clum was repeatedly recalled. The violin and guitar numbers by the Messrs. Brodie and Burkham was a musical classic. Then the thirteen bachelors and henpecked husbands carried on and the rest of the evening was filled with laughter and tears.

K. of C. Annual Communion

About Five Hundred Members of Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus, Near Stirling Address By The Rev. Joseph B. Scully and Judge Cunningham.

Judge William D. Cunningham of Ellenville delivered a very forceful address at the communion breakfast of Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus held Sunday morning at St. Mary's Church. Judge Cunningham's talk on the need of true leadership in the lay body of the Catholic Church today was listened to with marked attention by about five hundred members of the local council of knights.

The judge's scholarly address completed a program that was most impressive and bid fair to rival those of preceding years. As the procession of knights wended its way into the large edifice of St. Mary's, it portrayed a beautiful spectacle. St. Mary's Church had opened wide its doors for the annual reception of communion by the local order and the Rev. Joseph B. Scully, pastor of St. Mary's Church, offered the Mass and delivered an eloquent sermon.

During the offering of the Mass the Knights of Columbus choir rendered the musical program. Dennis Quilly was the soloist.

Following the reception of communion the members repaired to the spacious auditorium of St. Mary's School where breakfast was served. Mrs. Lawrence Dugan catered and the members of the Catholic Daughters of America faultlessly served the appetizing breakfast.

The Saint Maria band of Kingston Point composed of young members of the local council played delightfully during the serving of the breakfast. Joseph Murray and James Cassidy were the soloists at the breakfast. Grand Knight William Byrne, toastmaster, called upon Attorney Andrew J. Cook for a few remarks and also upon District Deputy Patrick T. Murphy.

In his talk Mr. Cook told of the Good Will Union, which held a meeting, publicly, at the High School several weeks ago, at which time United States Senator Towne was the principal speaker. Mr. Cook expressed regret that but a small gathering had turned out to hear this eminent speaker. The purpose of the Good Will Society, which is composed solely of true Americans, was very clearly outlined. Mr. Cook exhorted the members to take an interest into this society and at future meetings to respond in large numbers.

District Deputy Murphy called attention to duties of the local members toward the carrying on of the great work of the Knights of Columbus and supporting present officers of the council and by attending meetings show a greater interest. The insurance of members in the Knights of Columbus as a cardinal duty toward their family was also discussed by the district deputy. The talk on Knights of Columbus insurance was a part of the national program of the Knights of Columbus.

The Rev. Father Scully in his inspiring address following the communion breakfast, impressed upon the members their duties as Catholics and Knights of Columbus. The notable work accomplished by the Knights of Columbus in promoting Catholic education and charity was referred to by the pastor but he emphasized the great task that still was to be attained by the Catholic laity. "This outward manifestation displayed this morning was a beautiful sight, but worthless if not lived up to in all walks in every day life, so that by your example Catholicity may be unfurled the potency of which would have great weight on present day evils," was the tenor of the message.

that Father Scully so eloquently delivered to the local Knights of Columbus.

Judge Cunningham, the last speaker of the program, in his usual witty introductory remarks told of his many appearances at St. Mary's Hall as a speaker. In a serious vein he spoke of the dearth of leadership in the lay body of the Catholic Church, and the necessity of a monitor in this present age. The judge referred to an intellectual leader as opposed to a political leader. The responsibility that the Knights of Columbus should take upon its shoulders in the information of real leadership in the lay body of the church he also expressed.

"The message of the Knights of Columbus to the outside world is not that of splendor or magnificence," said Judge Cunningham, "but examples of true Catholicity, the program of which should be worked out philosophically and not in mass arrangement with a leader. It was not this kind of leadership that was needed but a leadership in forming a viewpoint, leadership in journalism and writing. Such leadership would do much to neutralize the lamentable conditions, which result from the denial of the divinity of Christ. The Catholic Church accepts the Bible not in part but in agreement to all its teachings." Judge Cunningham concluded his talk by congratulating his fellow knights on their public demonstrations and admonishing them to be ready at all times to combat the demoralizing influences of the present day that have reached such proportions of destruction to those in their charge, who are of the formative age.

Following the speech of Judge Cunningham, which was lustily applauded, Grand Knight Byrne assured the judge that he was by no means a too frequent visitor of the affairs of the local council. The grand knight also expressed his pleasure for the high calibre, both of the speeches and entertainment.

William McAuliffe, lecturer, was general chairman of this year's successful communion breakfast.

As a fitting sequel to one of the most notable communion breakfasts of the local order, the second degree of the local council, the second degree was conferred upon a class of twenty-one candidates at the council home. The local degree team and the recently organized Knights of Columbus choir conferred the degree.

Greatest Slugger Signs Contract

Rogers Hornsby, the famous slugger of the St. Louis Cardinals, who led the National league in hitting for the fifth consecutive time and broke a number of batting records last season, is shown signing a three-year contract with the St. Louis National league baseball club, at a salary said to be over $33,000 a year.

Another Grange Star

With the announcement that Red Grange's younger brother will be ready for the varsity this fall, hopes of the Illinois fans took on new life for the 1925 Big Ten championship. The younger Grange's given name is Garland, he plays in the backfield, starred in Wheaton prep circles and has hair of much redder hue than his famous brother's. Looks like a Grange year at Illinois.

Pitcher Joe Bush Plans to Become Outfielder

Joe Bush, star pitcher of the St. Louis Americans, doesn't intend to retire from the majors when his twirling days are over. No indeed! Joe plans to spend about five more years in the big show after he loses his ability to mystify the opposing batters.

A natural hitter, Bush of late years has given much attention to the batting end of the game. He has improved to such an extent that he is now regarded as one of the best pinch hitters in the American league.
For several years he has done pinch hitting roles for the Yankees aside from pitching. When Miller Huggins needed a right-handed hitter in a pinch, Bush invariably got the call.
On the days when it was not his turn to pitch, Bush spent much time chasing fly balls and has become a very proficient fielder.
"Joe Wood, a great pitcher in his day, hung on for many years after he was through as a twirler because he could play the outfield and hit," says Bush, "and I intend to follow in his footsteps."

Boxer Hit So Hard His Right Leg Was Broken

Ever hear of a boxer being hit so hard on the chin that his leg was broken?

Back in 1904, Mike Schreck of Chicago, who for several years was a real contender for the middleweight championship, fought Tim Hurley in a ring pitched on the turn of the bank of the Mississippi river about thirty miles below St. Paul.

In the fourth round Schreck smashed Hurley on the chin with a heavy right swing, the blow turning Hurley half way around. Hurley's right foot sank into the turf as he spun around, his leg twisting under him and breaking the large bone.

Browns Release Pruett

One of the variations in the life of Babe Ruth, the home-run king, has been removed by the release of Hal Pruett by the St. Louis Browns to the Oakland club. Pruett, who is a south-paw pitcher, proved to be one of Ruth's favorites in the past two years.

He earned most of his fame with the Browns because of his ability to strike out Ruth, who looked upon the young left-hander as one of the greatest threats he had to contend with. Pruett is the sixth member of the Browns' starting staff of 1924 to be released, traded or sold. The others are Shocker, Kelp, Byrne, Lyons and Veight.

Sporting Squibs

San Francisco possesses the only municipal tennis stadium in the country.

Jack Fournier, veteran first baseman of the Dodgers, has signed a two-year contract.

Outfielder Bob Gillespie has been sold to Evansville of the Three-I league by Vernon.

Dnn Patch's pacing record for a mile is 1:55%. Peter Manning's trotting record is 1:56%.

Elmer Duggan, a left-handed pitching star of the Brown university team, has signed a contract with the Yankees.

Clyde Milan, former outfielder for Washington, will manage Memphis in the Southern association again this season.

An immense stadium and an automobile track, on which will be held international motor races, are to be built in Atlantic City, N. J.

Once curling was essentially a man's game, but now women's clubs are to be found in Scotland, in Canada, in Switzerland and elsewhere.

Stanley Coveleskie, traded from the Cleveland club to Washington, won a sweepstakes live-bird match at Locust Gap, Pa., by potting 22 out of 24 birds.

At the annual meeting of the Baltimore International baseball club all the officers were re-elected and a 10 per cent dividend declared on the capital stock.

The Phillies have signed two St. Louis semi-pro pitchers. They are Fred Roseberg, twenty-two years old, a right-hander, and Walter Wolf, twenty years old, a lefty.

Jack Blott, the former University of Michigan catcher who recently resigned from the Cincinnati Nationals to become a college coach, has been placed on the "voluntarily retired list."

A report comes from New York that Outfielder Walter Witt may be given a chance to fill Everett Scott's place at short should the veteran infielder fall down under the load of age. Witt was a shortstop in his early days.

Houston has signed Pitcher Edgar Hennig of the University of Illinois. His home is in San Marcos, Texas. Joe Gore, an outfielder from Oklahoma, and Raymond Benga, a pitcher, are other college lads who will tryout with the Bluffs.

Sparrow Robinson, Paris sports critic, who is in New York, says he has been commissioned to present to John McGraw and Charlie Comiskey and all players who made the European tour, medals from the French government.

Clintons Won In Extra Period

Saturday evening two very important and interesting games were played in the church basketball leagues at the Y. M. C. A.

In the first game the Church of Comforter defeated the Albany Avenue Baptists by the close score of 19-17. The Fair Street Reformed Church was not present to play in the next contest and the referee forfeited the game to the First Presbyterians, 2-0. In the last contest the Clinton Avenue M. E. and the St. James M. E. were fighting for first place in the Senior League. When the game closed the score stood 27-27. An extra five minutes period was played and Clinton Avenue won by a 35-27 score. The teams lined up as follows:

It's a record run

THE most popular show on Broadway and the most popular cigarette—each proves anew the old adage that "the surest way to win success is to deserve it."

Chesterfield's popularity is no accident. It has been earned by sheer good taste—the full-bodied richness and fragrance of exceptional tobaccos, perfectly blended.

And Chesterfield continues its record-breaking run, winning more and more smokers every day, because it is deserved.

Hearts and Dollars

Two Statements—one of which has to do with Health and Welfare, the other with Financial Strength

AN OPEN LETTER

(Name on Request)

Mr. HALEY FISKE, President
METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE CO.
NEW YORK CITY

My Dear Mr. Fiske:

Why don't you publish a Heart Statement along with the regular Financial Statement you put out each year?

Any company can publish impressive figures of financial strength, financial growth, etc. But figures don't stick. All I remember from your last year's Statement is that the Metropolitan has several million policyholders and is the biggest life insurance company in the world.

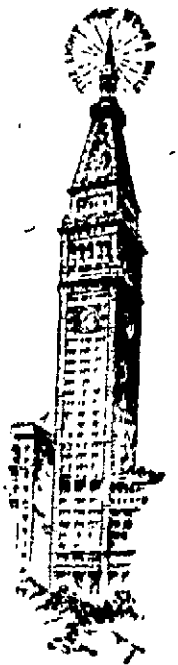

I've been following some of your magazine advertisements lately that tell of work you're doing to help people live longer. It isn't entirely clear in my mind just how you're doing it or why you do it, but since you are doing it, give us the facts and figures on that. Call it a Heart Statement or a Welfare Statement, or anything you like, but—give us the facts.

Perhaps other Metropolitan policyholders like myself would be interested in a Statement of that kind.

Very truly yours,

C. N. S.

WE are indebted to Mr. S. for his suggestion. It is an excellent one. We publish an annual Business Statement of the Metropolitan, not because we think that the figures will be remembered, but because they offer conclusive evidence of unusual growth and strength to its 22,000,000 policyholders.

And it is this extraordinary financial strength that makes it possible for the Metropolitan to carry on a nation-wide campaign for better health and longer life.

People now live longer

Records kept by the Metropolitan show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its policyholders. Compared with 1911, for example, there were nearly 62,000 fewer deaths in 1924 among its Industrial Policyholders than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

You are the gainer

You and all the other 22,000,000 policyholders—one out of every six people in the United States and Canada—reap the benefit through better health and decreased cost of insurance.

The wealth of the Metropolitan belongs to you and to no one else. The Metropolitan has no stock and no stockholders. It is owned solely by its policyholders. You, as one of the policyholders, share in the ownership of all its investments; in its railroad bonds, its real-estate mortgages, its loans to farmers, loans to states, cities and towns for public improvements and similar enterprises.

You, as a part-owner of over $1,600,000,000, should read the two statements on the left with a feeling of pride in what your company has achieved.

The efforts as well as the assets of the Metropolitan are dedicated to protection against future want—to greater happiness, better health and longer life.

Halley Fiske.

HOMELESS ARE FED AND HOUSED

Ancient Custom Revived by Monks of St. Christopher in New York.

New York.—Less than 50 miles north of New York City, on top of a hill near Bear Mountain, stands a little house. From its doorstep you look off to the south, over 30 miles of snow-covered hills, and see the gleam of the Hudson below; and you look off to the north and see the crests of the Catskills. The name of the little house is St. Christopher's Inn. In the last 16 years fully 15,000 tattered, foot-sore, hungry and penniless wanderers who came tramping along the road have been fed and given a lodging for the night at St. Christopher's Inn. Around and above the little house are larger buildings. Along the paths that join them walk priests in brown robes, girdled with white cords, and wearing sandals. Looking at them, one wonders if this is truly the year 1825 and if this place is really New York. Rather, it would seem that the spectator had stepped back a thousand years and across 3,000 miles to the England of the medieval centuries when sanded monks gave bread and lodging to the travelers who knocked at the monastery door. The same garb, the same charity, the same scene.

How did this strange renaissance of a custom buried for centuries come about? What was the origin of St. Christopher's Inn at Garrison, New York? Twenty-six years ago, in 1899, a convent was dedicated on the Albany Post road, three miles from the railroad station at Garrison. It was occupied by nuns of a new religious order, known as Sisters of the Atonement. The highway is the main road between New York and Albany and every day jobless men tramp along it on their way to the cities. The Mother Superior, Sister Laurana Mary, gave directions that any man who stopped to beg for a bite to eat was to be fed, asking of him in return only that he bring a bucket or two of water from the well to the kitchen door.

A few months later the American clergyman who had conceived the idea of the companion religious order, the Friars of the Atonement, Father Paul James Francis, began to build up his brotherhood of monks, selecting as the site of the friary the top of the mountain that overlooks the convent. The mountain was named Graymoor, after Dr. Zabrinkle Gray, the pastor of the little church which was taken over by the Sisters of the Atonement, and Mr. Moore, a Columbia professor who had helped Doctor Gray. The jobless men to whom meals had been given by the Sisters had spread the word among the men like themselves whom they met on their wanderings; and when these newcomers reached the place they were sent on up the hill to Father Paul's little chapel. From year to year the fame of the place was passed from lip to lip among the jobless wanderers until soon it was known among them from Boston to San Francisco. And every tramp and hobo who stops there, no matter how ragged and dirty he may be, is hailed by the monks as "Brother Christopher."

Story of Christopher.

From the first, back in 1903, these men were given a place to sleep overnight if they wished it. The Friary was in its infancy then, there were only two or three monks besides Father Paul, and the only building in which the men might sleep was an old woodshed, which is still standing and is still used for the purpose. One of its present occupants is an old Irishman, with the high, thin, Spanish features of a true Galway man, who came limping along the Post road one day 10 years ago, stopped overnight and has remained there ever since. It is he who can tell who the first Christopher was, and this is his story:

"Christopher was a heathen lad who lived 1700 years ago, no less. His father was king of Arabia, and the young lad might have had anything he wished. His back was as tall as a house and his shoulders were flat as a wall and he was bigger than any cop and stronger than Jack Dempsey. But he had queer notions, he had.

"He said he wouldn't work for his father because, let his father be a very powerful king, he was not the most powerful king on earth; and Christopher had it on his mind he would not work for any except the most powerful king of them all. So the old king says to him, 'All right, if that's your notion ye may leave the palace and shift for yourself.' So then the devil himself says to Christopher, 'And why don't ye work for me? Sure, it's me that is stronger than any king on earth.' But the lad Christopher laughed at him, for well he knew that the devil was afraid of some one stronger than himself; but who that some one was, Christopher didn't know then, him being a heathen.

"So, having no job and no money, Christopher takes to living in the mountains of that country, and there was a terrible swift river there, and the river was so strong that say some traveler who tried to cross it would be swept off his feet and drowned surely. So Christopher, having a strong back, as I told ye, and a kind heart, used to put any traveler on his shoulders and carry him across the raging river, and the traveler not so much as wetting his feet. And Christopher—well, it's true, it's nothing at all at all, and it's glad I am to do it."

"Then one bitter cold day who but a little child, all alone, comes wandering along that terrible lonely way to cross this terrible river I'm telling you about; and of course Christopher puts him up on his back as easy as a feather and starts across, whistling. But the further he goes the heavier gets the child, until by half way across Christopher says to himself, 'We're carrying the weight of the whole world, I am, and no legs breaking under me.' But he keeps on, and at long last he sees the child down on the other side. But when he looks up, lo and behold, there is no one there at all! Now, was not that a queer thing?"

"But Christopher was happy as long as he lived, for from that day on his heart was always singing inside him like a bird and his face shining. For it came on him that the child was the most powerful king of the world, and his serving him had to be other."

A "Devil's" Added.

Then the story of St. Christopher, who bore the patron saint of all travelers and the origin of the little house on each lonely mountain wanderer who stops at Graymoor. In 1900 the monks built another house, next door to the old woodshed, intending to use it as a kitchen house; but the "Brother Christopher" kept coming in increasing numbers and the new building was turned over to their use, as a dormitory, and named "St. Christopher's Inn."

with the old woodshed which has cost for 8 or 7 more, is not enough. In a single day as many as 100 "Brothers Christopher" have stopped and asked for lodging, 33 slept there in a single night, and this is about the daily average. They all St. Christopher's Inn; they all live in the woodshed; they are all in the basement of the friary, alongside the furnace; they sleep in the two pump houses, the chicken house, the ice house, the water tower, the basement of a barn and in the sheds on the farm where the friars raise their vegetables. There isn't an inch of available shelter that isn't filled up at night.

"What we're to do next, I don't know," says Father Paul, a smile on his face. "We need a regular hall to accommodate these poor fellows, a house with 50 or more beds in it, and a place in which they can bathe and where their clothing can be laundered. But it would cost at least $50,000, and all we have on hand is $5,000."

Father Paul is sixty-four years old now, but he has faith that he will see this dream come true. So many of his dream have already come true: When he came to Graymoor, 25 years ago, he had not a penny with which to build. But now there stand on that mountain a half-dozen fine buildings, housing the work of the Friars of St. Paul of the Society of Atonement. Fourteen years ago he founded a society, the "Order of the Holy Spirit," which began without funds of any sort, but which now sends annually $250,000 for missionary work to Foreign lands.

"These Brothers Christopher come to us from so many lands," says he, "and they go on, to so many lands. We do not ask what their faith is. Even if they have no creed at all, we take them in and send them on. We will never turn them away."

Moving Mountain Peaks

South Wales Community
Bargest, South Wales—Movements of Tremorhewen mountain near here have done great property damage and become a menace to the community.

Fresh tremors have appeared at the foot of the moving mountain and all the nearby highways have been closed to traffic. Water mains supplying more than 100,000 persons in the Phymery valley have been broken by the pressure of the moving earth and several hundred workmen have been employed to make repairs as rapidly as possible. Several sections of a newly constructed main trunk sewer which cost more than $1,000,000 have already been destroyed and in some places the pipes were pushed twenty to thirty feet out of position.

Masked Bandit Murders Couple

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., March 23.—A man and woman were killed, shot dead in their bed, and another woman, living in another flat on the same floor of the same apartment building, was perhaps fatally wounded by a charge of buckshot here today.

The dead were Mrs. Mary Palumbo, 25, and her husband, Edward, 24.

Mrs. Palumbo's body was found beside her bed. She had been shot through the head, apparently with a sawed-off shotgun. She was clothed in her night gown, stockings and bath slippers, which she is believed to have pulled on hurriedly when confronted by her assailant. Crouched near the body, police found two crying children, Carmella, two, and Arthur, four.

In the kitchen they found the body of the husband, shot through the eye. Mrs. Marie Pacifico, 43, was wounded when she opened the door to her flat in answer to a knock. A masked man, confronting her, raised a shotgun and fired without a warning. Her husband Joseph rushed to the door and the man again raised his weapon but presumably became frightened or else his charges had been exhausted, as he lowered it and fled.

The husband told police he could assign no cause for the attack.

Americans Safe In Chinese 'Quake'

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Peking, March 23.—Americans residing in Taitu, the city in western Yun-Nan, destroyed by earthquake and fire March 16, escaped injury, according to word received here today at the American legation.

No reports as to the number of persons killed and injured at Taitu were received. Scores, however, were believed to have met death. Taitu, with a population of 80,000, was wiped out, reports said.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

In Honor of the Great Western Expansionist

When the fur trade died in the great West, there died with it many of the posts which had been the centers of this industry. One notable exception was Fort Benton in Montana. Built in 1844 by Alexander Culbertson of the American Fur company, it was originally named Fort Lewis in honor of Meriwether Lewis, the explorer. In 1846 this post was moved to the head of navigation on the Missouri, rebuilt with adobe, and on Christmas day dedicated amid great festivities as Fort Benton, thus honoring Thomas Hart Benton, the great western expansionist and a trusted friend of the "A. F. C."

In its first period Fort Benton ranked with Fort Union in North Dakota as a fur center, and later it became the main center of trade in buffalo robes, when Fort Union was abandoned. The fact that from 20,000 to 50,000 buffalo robes were shipped from Fort Benton each year tells briefly why the buffalo vanished from the northern plains.

The greatest glory of Fort Benton came about the year 1868. When the Red Cloud war stopped the rush of miners to the new gold fields in Montana over the Bozeman trail, they were forced to fall back upon the water route, the Missouri river. Before 1868 not more than six steamers arrived at Fort Benton annually, but in that year the number leaped to 31, and from then until 1890 the number of arrivals constantly increased.

Fort Benton became the principal departing point for the diggings, and no less than 600 wagons gathered there each year to make the long haul of supplies, sometimes as much as 5,000 tons a year, to the gold camps from 150 to 300 miles away. In those years there was no more picturesque place in the country than Fort Benton. Miners from all parts of the land, ex-soldiers from both the Union and Confederate armies, fur traders, hunters, trappers, good men and bad, they all made up the constantly shifting population of this post.

In 1890 the government established a military post there, and in 1877 purchased the American Fur company's old fort, but soon abandoned it. When the Great Northern railroad pushed into Montana, Fort Benton vanished rapidly until today there remains only a few crumbling walls of what the late Emerson Hough once characterized as "the most famous and most picturesque of all the historic posts on the Upper Missouri."

Fishing With Pumps

Commercial fishing is not a very sporting proposition and the unfortunate fish does not get much of a chance. Inventing a fish into a hook has been the accepted means of catching him since the Stone Age. Catching him in a net is a method of quite remarkable antiquity. Now Americans are using a pump and sucking him in. A tube running four and six feet into a tank, and an eight-inch water-driven, centrifugal pump at the forward end makes in about fourteen feet of fish and water a vacuum. This goes down the water to run off. The vacuum is strong, and immediately catches a fish, one of the best pumps through a sheet of fish more than two tons of fish a minute may be trapped in the tank. —Fishing World.

Abandon Hope for Entombed Miners

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Barracksville, West Va., March 23.—"There is not a chance the four men still in the mine are alive. Twenty-nine men have been brought out dead, and the four men still entombed were in a part of the mine where the explosion struck the hardest."

Chief R. M. Lambie, of the state department of mines, in charge of rescue work at mine number 41 of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, made this statement today, confirming intimations of rescue workers that none of the 33 miners entombed by an explosion in the mine last Tuesday night would be rescued alive.

CONDOR MIGHTIEST OF CARRION BIRDS

Has Gourmandizing Power That Is Remarkable.

This greatest of unclean birds, the condor, has been singularly unfortunate in the hands of the curious and scientific. More than fifty years have elapsed since the first specimen reached Europe; yet today the exaggerated stories of its size and strength are repeated in many of our textbooks, and the very latest ornithological work leaves us in doubt as to its relation to the other vultures. No one credits the assertion of the old geographer, Marco Polo, that the condor can lift an elephant from the ground high enough to kill it by the fall, nor the story of the traveler, so late as 1880, who declared that a condor of moderate size, just killed, was lying before him, a single quill feather of which was 20 good inches long, says a writer in the Wide World Magazine. Yet the statement continues to be published that the ordinary expanse of a full-grown specimen is from twelve to twenty feet, whereas it is very doubtful if it ever exceeds or even equals twelve feet. A full-grown male from the most celebrated locality on the Andes, now in Vassar college, has a stretch of nine feet. Humboldt never found one to measure over nine feet; and the largest specimen seen by Darwin was eight and a half feet from tip to tip. An old male in the zoological gardens of London measures eleven feet. Von Tschudi says he found one with a spread of fourteen feet two inches, but he invalidates his testimony by the subsequent statement that the full-grown condor measures from twelve to thirteen feet.

The ordinary habitat of the royal condor is between the altitudes of 10,000 and 16,000 feet. The largest seem to make their home around the volcano of Cayamb, which stands exactly on the equator. In the rainy season they frequently descend to the coast, where they may be seen roosting in trees. On the mountains they very rarely perch (for which their feet are poorly fitted), but stand on rocks. They are most commonly seen around vertical cliffs, where their nests are, and where cattle are most likely to fall. Great numbers frequent Antisana, where there is a great cattle estate. Flocks are never seen except around a large carcass. It is often seen singly soaring at a great height in vast circles. Its flight is slow and majestic. Its head is always in motion as it is in search of food below. Its mouth is kept open and its tail spread. To rise from the ground it must needs run for some distance; then it flaps its wings three or four times and ascends at a low angle till it reaches a considerable elevation, when it seems to make a few leisurely strokes, as if to ease its wings, after which it literally sails upon the air.

In walking the wings trail along the ground and the head takes a crouching position. It has a very awkward, almost painful, gait. From its inability to rise without running a narrow path is sufficient to imprison it. Though a carrion bird, it breathes the purest air, spending most of its time soaring three miles above the sea. Humboldt saw one flying over Chimborazo. We have seen them sailing at least a thousand feet above the crater of Pichincha.

Its gourmandizing power has hardly been overestimated. We have known a single condor, not of the largest size, to make away in one week with a calf, a sheep and a dog. It prefers carrion, but will sometimes attack live sheep, deer, dogs, etc. The eyes and tongue are the favorite parts, and are devoured; next, the intestines. We never heard of one attacking a case of its carrying off children, nor of its attacking adults, except in defense of its eggs. Von Tschudi says it cannot carry when flying a weight over ten pounds. In captivity it will eat anything, except pork and cooked meat. When full fed it is exceedingly stupid and can be caught by the head; but at other times it is a match for the cleverest man. It passes the greater part of the day sleeping, more often crouching for prey in morning and evening than at noon—very likely because objects are more distinctly seen. It is seldom shot (though it is not invulnerable, as once thought), but is generally trapped or lured.

Bottle Insulator for Your Lead-In Simple, Economical Bushing That Can Be Easily Made at Home.

BY HARRY R. LUCKE

The efficiency of many good aerials is decreased by improper insulation of the lead-in.

It is desirable to have the down-lead in the clear as much as possible. It should be strung so that it is the shortest and most direct path from the antenna proper to the set. For highest efficiency it should come near the building only once, the point at which it enters. At this point we must be scrupulously careful about the insulation.

Fig. 1 shows an economical bushing that can be made by any one and still meets all the requirements for a low loss insulator. The insulating portion consists of a large bottle, 12 inches or more in height, the bottom of which has been cut off. This Bushing That Meets All Requirements for Low Loss Insulator.

Sits in the support "S" and projects through the roof as shown.

It is essential that the bottle be at least 12 inches high because the larger it is the longer the leakage path will be from the lead-in wire to the roof. The bottom can be removed easily by the following process: A scratch is first made at the place where the bottle is to be cut with a file moistened with turpentine. Then a piece of iron wire about one-eighth of an inch in diameter is bent to conform with the curvature of the bottle, heated to redness and applied at the scratch. This is shown in Fig. 2. In a moment a crack will start directly under the wire. The wire is again heated and applied successively until a crack has been made all around the bottle. The bottom will then fall off.

The bottom piece of the support has a hole in it slightly smaller than the

How Heated Wire Is Applied to Cut the Bottle.

Inside of the bottle. It is held in place by two triangular-shaped side pieces and an end as shown.

A cork is used to hold the lead-in wire as it enters the bushing. A hole should be burned through it with a hot wire of the same size as the lead-in. When the affair is in place the cork and the junction between the bottle and the roof should be coated with asphaltum roofing cement to make it watertight.

If it is desired to bring the lead-in through the side of the building a hole should be cut of such size that the bottle fits snugly. This should be backed up by a board with a slightly smaller hole than the inside of the bottle. The bottle can also be held by a board of such length that it extends all the way across a window and about six inches in width. The board can then be put in the upper part of the window frame and held in place by pushing up the sash.—New York Sun.

Sheet Brass Is Used in Making Switch Stop

Most radio dealers carry regular switch stops which can be placed at each end of the row of switch points to keep the lever from moving too far. Sometimes there is not room on the panel for these regular stops. An easy way to make one is to cut a small rectangle from a piece of sheet brass and drill a hole near one end, large enough to pass over the stem of the switch point. After you have bolted the switch point to the panel, it is a simple matter to bend up the end of the brass against the side of the switch point to form a stop for the lever.

Try Interchanging Tubes

A set that is equipped with three or more tubes will work better if the tubes are changed from one socket to another. The amplification factor of a given type of tube is generally said to be the same for all tubes of this type, but actually the amplification factor, like other individual characteristics of a tube, varies slightly for each tube.

Formation of League Still Up in the Air

Outlook For Baseball League Composed of Semi-Pro Teams in Valley Is Very Doubtful—Series With Teams Will Be Staged.

After discussing the question pro and con for five hours Sunday afternoon, no decision was reached as to whether a league should be formed among semi-pro teams in this section. From the trend of the discussion it would appear as though no league will be formed this season among local semi-pro baseball teams although it is probable that a series of games will be arranged among teams which would compose the league if formed.

A meeting was held at the offices of Cohen Brothers on Main street which was attended by representatives of the clubs below Albany which might be possible material for a league. In addition to the clubs below Albany which were represented Chapple Johnson came down from Amsterdam to represent that club and urge its admission in a league if formed. After it was decided that no team would be admitted to the league from above Albany, on the grounds that it was too distant, Chapple Johnson expressed his case some team which had the necessary qualifications should fail to enter the league if it was decided to form a league.

The representatives from Poughkeepsie, Oneonta, Middletown, Walden and Kingston were invited to attend the meeting and all of the towns were represented except Walden. A delegation left that town for the meeting but failed to arrive Maybrook, which was considered as a likely prospect. In case a league was formed, had not been invited to send a delegation but was represented at the meeting.

Matthew H. Herzog, a director of the Kingston Fair Grounds, Inc., which is putting the Kingston Colonials in the field this season, presided as chairman and Chester A. Rote of Oneonta, was secretary. Besides Mr. Herzog, Kingston was represented by Aaron Cohen and W. A. Rudderham of the Fair Grounds, and Matty Deegan and Jack Robbins, of the Colonials. Oneonta was represented by a half dozen men, headed by Chester A. Rote and D. A. Wilbur. Brown Hunter and Dr. Schmidt appeared for Middletown. Gus Joy for Poughkeepsie and Messrs. Collins Gilson and Tell for Maybrook.

The chief difficulty seemed to be that no suitable schedule could be worked out. Some of the teams were limited to the number of games which could be played each week. In some cases only one or two games a week could be played and in view of these restrictions it seemed almost impossible to form any satisfactory schedule. Several theories were advanced by various members present but no decision could be arrived at which seemed to be fair and satisfactory to all of the teams.

Our joy of Poughkeepsie offered the suggestion that the teams play a series of games among themselves for a time and thus determine whether all of the teams were strong enough to warrant their admission into a league. It was his idea that the weaker teams should be eliminated before a league was formed as poor teams would detract from the drawing powers of baseball. His suggestion led to a long discussion in which Dr. Schmidt championed the cause of the smaller teams.

Mr. Wilbur offered a suggestion that Kingston, Poughkeepsie and Oneonta play daily and that the smaller teams play less often and that the standing of the clubs be figured by percentage of games won and lost. This consumed considerable time in the discussion which followed.

The matter of guarantee for games played away from home also came in for its share of the discussion and it was the opinion of the majority that $100 for week-day games and $175 for Sunday games was a fair amount.

When the meeting finally adjourned no action had been taken and from present indications it is likely that independent ball will be played with series arranged among the different clubs.

Vassar Professor Hangs Himself

By Telegram to The Freeman
Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 23.—Professor George S. Fullerton, visiting professor at Vassar College and a noted authority on philosophy, hanged himself in his home here today. He had been in ill health and despondent.

The body was found by Mrs. Fullerton and a friend. She had arrived in Poughkeepsie this morning to arrange for a trip for the educator. She left the home for a short time.

While she was absent Professor Fullerton got a clothes line and went into a closet adjoining his study. He fastened the rope around his neck, stood on a chair and jumped.

Efforts to revive him failed. Professor Fullerton was a well known author and a professor of philosophy. He was born in Fatehgarh, India, on August 18, 1853. He was a graduate from Yale and received degrees from many foreign universities. In 1897 he married Julia Winslow Dickerson of Philadelphia following the death of his first wife in 1892.

He was the author of many works, including "The World We Live In."

Your Last Name

IS IT THOREAU?

THOREAU is said to be equivalent to the more usual name Bull, for Thoreau is the old French form, of taurus, or taureau, meaning bull. These names may originally have been taken as nicknames describing physical or mental characteristics, or from shop signs, which some authorities think much more likely.

The name Thoreau is known here chiefly as the name of Henry Thoreau, who married the daughter of a New England clergyman and was the son of John Thoreau of the Isle of Jersey, who married a Scottish woman named Burns in Boston. John was son of Philippe Thoreau and Marie Gallia, of pure French blood, who settled at St. Hillier in Jersey.

Henry Thoreau thus had a New England mother, a Scotch grandmother with a mixture of Jersey and French blood besides. The family in this country was never wealthy, but always highly respected and above the average in mental endowments.

STEWART—This name, says one authority on name origins, has had its ups and downs. It is derived from two words, sty and ward, and in its earliest form literally means keeper of the sty. Eventually the steward or Stewart was an official attached to the household of a prince or nobleman and it is in this capacity that the royal Stewart family derived the name.

There was a Norman baron Alan whose eldest son, William, became the progenitor of the earls of Arundel in England and whose younger sons, Walter and Simon, went to Scotland. Walter became high steward to King David I of Scotland, and when one of his successors, also named Walter the Steward, married Marjorie Bruce in 1315, the family became royal. Many of the Stewarts and Stuarths of the present time claim, with good enough grounds, to be descendants of this union.

Mrs. Lyander John Appleton
Miss Daysey Mayme Appleton
Master Chauncey Devere Appleton

IT IS Mrs. Lyander John Appleton's opinion that a literal interpretation of that old command, "Put your best foot forward," means to hang all of her and Daysey Mayme's ruffled, tucked and lace-trimmed underwear in the front yard on washday, and the patched and tattered arms and legs belonging to her husband and son in the rear.

Unless something happens to remove Chauncey Devere Appleton from the atmosphere in which he is living, he will grow up as suspicious of what the women call love as a rat is of cheese.

The greatest sorrow of Daysey Mayme's life is that she is misunderstood by her own family. Many an evening she finds herself so lonesome when with them, that she walks out to the gate alone and looks up at the stars, and when she can't get out, she will stand at a window and look wistfully into the dark. Daysey Mayme frequently looks wistfully into the dark, having learned from the books that this is a symptom of Soulfulness. So one night she soaked her pillow with tears in her yearning for the Cal.

Amherst Clubs Here April 14

College Musical Clubs to Appear at Kingston High School Under Auspices of Prisma Society—John Coolidge, Son of President, Member of Glee Club.

The combined musical clubs of Amherst College will appear in Kingston Tuesday evening, April 14, at the Kingston high school auditorium under the auspices of the Prisma Society, assisted by the Symposium Club. The proceeds of the concert will be used toward the establishment of a permanent scholarship fund for Kingston high school students in college.

John Coolidge, son of President Coolidge, is a member of the Glee Club.

Edwin C. Lacey, a local young man and senior at Amherst, is a member of both Glee and Madeline Clubs.

The arrangements for the concert are in charge of Miss Elsie Tully, president of Prisma, and Arthur G. Lacey, Amherst 1922.

Amherst is known throughout the country as the "Singing College of New England" and in this year represented by one of the best musical organizations in its history. The club will give their concert in Kingston shortly after their spring trip when they are to play at York, Philadelphia, Hot Springs, Va., White Sulphur Springs, West Va., Columbus, Ohio, Syracuse, N. Y., and Gloversville, while very successful engagements have been held at Pittsfield, Mass., Worcester, Mass., Hartford, Conn., Great Neck and Flushing, L. I., and New York city.

The clubs bring with them a reputation gained through half a century of distinguished activity in the musical field for the Amherst clubs were the first college musical organization in the United States. It may well be said that it was and is, with the exception of Harvard, the only American college musical club to tour England and its ambitious undertaking met with ample reward in its reception in English cities.

Advances information credits the clubs with an excellent program and a remarkably versatile personnel. The glee club under the presidency of H. H. Bliss of Beirut, Syria, has been enhanced by the addition of several new and talented members and has reached a higher standard of excellence than ever before. The club has added a group of sailors' choruses to their repertoire and this is the first time that such a group has been presented by a college club.

The club as usual sings "Lord Jeffrey Amherst," the song said by Green-Winter to be the greatest piece of college music ever written and without which no Amherst program would be complete.

The madeline club directed by L. L. Hall of New Rochelle, N. Y., is very popular with the audiences. Madeline numbers from the latest musical comedies as well as semi-classical pieces. The club is accompanied by cantors, cello, banjo, saxophones, cornet, drums and piano.

Mr. Hall has recently composed a piece, "Foreign Impressions" which he has adapted and arranged from foreign street tunes and which includes strains from Spain, Italy, China and Hawaii. The different parts are played on the native instruments.

"Lord Jeffrey's Serenaders," the eight piece dance orchestra traveling with the clubs will play for a dance following the concert. This orchestra, one of the best in New England, is in constant demand in the cities and colleges of the east.

"I don't think Morse can live," said Dr. Henry James, his family physician.

Standard's New Prices.
Pittsburgh, Pa., March 23.—The Joseph Seep purchasing agency, purchasing agents for the Standard Oil Company here today announced price cuts of 20 to 30 cents in seven grades of oil in this section.

The agency also confirmed reports from Oil City that orders had been refused to buy oil stored before January 1. The orders were issued to discourage speculation in oil stocks and holding of large quantities of oil for higher prices, it stated.

Despite the price cuts, the ban of purchasing the oil stored before January 1 will continue, according to the agency.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, March 23.—Heavy selling of industrial stocks today resulted in severe price declines in most of the active stocks, the establishment of a new low average level for the year to date and the most serious shrinkage in prices of outstanding market leaders of any session since February 16.

Baldwin Locomotive was pushed down nearly five points below the previous low price of the year, and United States Steel which today reported net earnings of $11.77 a share last year, dipped to 118 for a loss of nearly three points from Saturday's close and about 12 points from the high of the year. General Motors earned $8.56 a share last year but the price of the stock declined to a new low for the movement.

Call money was in good supply and renewal rates remained at 3 1/2 per cent.

Grain markets were fairly steady but cotton reacted, chiefly as a result of unsettlement in foreign markets.

Further selling of local traction stocks and bonds was an unsettling factor. The bears persisted in their efforts to depress prices. Since March 1 all of the 1925 advance in average prices has been wiped out and today a good slice was taken out of December's rise.

By declining to around 14, Interborough Rapid Transit completed a drop of about 12 points since the opening on Saturday. Manhattan Elevated Modified Guaranteed stock, which lost eight points on Saturday, dropped eight more today and sold at a low of 32. Brooklyn Manhattan Transit lost four points at 36 1/2.

Steadiness in St. Paul stocks at current prices was a feature of the low priced railroad stocks. New York Central, Atchafon and other high priced shares suffered almost as badly as the industrial leaders.

Pestilence Fear Growing Less

Tornado District Feels Optimistic in Face of Colossal Task—Relief Agencies Thoroughly Organized—Religious Schools First.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Benton, Ill., March 23.—Storm and fire ridden southern Illinois, bent to the colossal task today of rehabilitation and staving off the possibility of pestilence.

Prayers—some silent and some sent into the heavens with hysterical fervency—rose from the forlorn masses who gathered in united worship Sunday and continued today privately.

It was a day when tens of thousands of aching hearts appealed for divine guidance and the courage to start life anew, while around the worshippers there resounded the steady tread of funeral corteges and the endless processions of gray and black bearing to final rest the 588 sacrifices to the madness of nature.

The eternal flame of hope that in the ghastly hours following last Wednesday's orgy of the elements seemed forever quenched, became rekindled today.

Optimism was lent conditions when medical relief directors, announced the danger of pestilence had taken on a remote aspect and that with restoration of sewage facilities within the next 48 hours this menace would be practically at a minimum.

Relief agencies are thoroughly organized.

Among the first reconstruction tasks will be the re-opening of schools.

Children will not be allowed to work and resumption of studies is expected within the next few days.

Under a program outlined by chamber of commerce officials, it is hoped to have living quarters and employment centers sufficiently rebuilt and under way within six months, to dispense with relief agencies.

Neighbor Sends In Still Alarm

Burning of Leaves and Rubbish This Morning in Rear of Antoinette Apartments Frightens a Neighbor—Other Still Alarms.

Companies of the fire department were called out by three still alarms since Sunday evening. The first one was at 6:20 o'clock Sunday evening, to put out a grass fire in the lowlands at the rear of Albany avenue back of Hayes Lane. At 8:50 this morning Willyweck Chemical Company and Excelsior House responded to a still alarm when an auto truck of William D. Ryan & Company, which was having its tank filled with gasoline at the A. S. Newcomb Company Oil Station, North Front street and Washington avenue, caught fire. The seat cushion was on fire and the back of the driver's cab damaged. At 9:50 this morning the Willyweck Chemicals responded to a still alarm sent in by a neighbor who feared damage might occur because Mrs. A. Winter who lives at 59 St. James street had engaged a man to burn leaves and rubbish in the rear of the Antoinette Apartments. As Mrs. Winter had secured a permit from Fire Chief Joseph Murphy to start a bonfire the firemen did not extinguish the fire as there seemed to be no danger.

Patriotic Americans

The pledge to the American flag that is used in most of our schools is attributed to James P. O'Connell, a Boston publisher, who in 1890 suggested its use in the schools. The idea was adopted by the National Education association, which persuaded congress to enact it to the attention of President Harrison, who, by proclamation of July 21, 1892, making October 22 as a holiday in commemoration of the four hundredth anniversary of the landing of Columbus in the New World, suggested the pledge to the flag be recited by the pupils and the flag raised over every school house.

Dennistoun Case Goes to Jury

Noted English Suit to Recover $6,000 Has Already Run Up Costs Estimated at $150,000—Verdict Expected Soon.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, March 23.—A verdict tonight or tomorrow was indicated today as the Dennistoun case, a suit for $6,000 which has run up its costs on all counts to a total estimated to be $150,000, neared a close.

The usual society crowd filled the court room early to listen to Sir Ellis Hume Williams attack Colonel Ian Dennistoun in summing up for Mrs. Dorothy Dennistoun, the plaintiff. His argument was to be followed by the judge's remark to the jury.

All the principals in the famous suit were in court, Mrs. Dennistoun arriving early and Colonel Dennistoun and Lady Carnarvon, his present wife, arriving after Williams had started his argument.

"Fifty thousand dollars was spent in investigations to rake up everything in Mrs. Dennistoun's life to discredit her," Williams said. "But there's been no attempt to urge the colonel to pay a half penny to her."

"The essence of blackmail is intimidation. Isn't the defendant with his mail the one who has been trying to intimidate the plaintiff?"

Dennistoun's defence was characterized by Williams as "disreputable dishonesty and made to frighten Mrs. Dennistoun to keep her out of court."

Lady Carnarvon, sitting at the counsel table exclaimed:

"It's a lie."

Williams said it was impossible that Dennistoun could have been in "deplorable circumstances" in Paris when he had an annual income of approximately $5,000, unless "he had been spending his money on another woman."

WHAT DOES MODERN GIRL REALLY WANT?

Question One of Them Finds Hard to Answer.

When you analyze the question of what modern girls really want, it is necessary to disabuse the mind of the delightfully vague, magazine-cover, tennis-playing, mauling-going creature as a true conception of the modern girl.

In a general way, the modern girl belongs to two recognized social classes—the middle classes—and how many subdivisions are here—and the class which is generally known as the "upper."

In the middle class you will find that the vaguest and most doubtful feminine member of the family has been taught the art of shorthand and typewriting. In the firm conviction that sooner or later she will become an "invaluable asset to the firm" and romance in the course of her work. What she wants is either to be taught to spell and write her own language, or to clear the course for the professional girl, "A Most Modern Girl" writes, in the Washington Post.

In the next social subsection there is the girl who works spasmodically—in every sense of the word—and whose family seems to spend its time imploring her to "give it up" and "stay at home and help mother." Whether she realizes it or not, the only possible solution of her problem is matrimony, with a strong accent on the last syllable in view of her general inability to cope with anything for long.

Then there is the real professional girl, by which is meant the girl who works because she must, and who works thoroughly because she enjoys it, and because she means to get there. What does she want? Certainly she smokes too much; she "gads" about too much; she spends too much, flirts too much. But why not? Here is the doubtful privilege of being an important man's right hand for years, and of receiving the "sack" when he dies. The humiliating classification of "surplus" is applied to those of her number who are not fortunate enough to find a man to marry them. She does not know what she wants—she eats, works and is merry.

The daughters of the super-tax payers present a still more difficult problem. All of them dance, some do, some get married and unmarried with amazing facility; many have no family life. . . . But they all have a want. It seems strange with unlimited money and pleasure this should be so. Perhaps what they want is work!

Analysis is the dangerous fashion of the age, and self-analysis the most vicious form of that. Calm introspection at times may be good for the soul, but not that continual probing for what is wanted.

Perhaps, after all, what the modern girl wants is not to be reminded that she wants anything.

Fooled Customs Officers

The customs cordon between northern and southern Ireland is, of course, a great nuisance to people whose market town lies across the border, and the indignation of those making acquaintance with the law's vagaries for the first time sometimes leads to amusing incidents. The other day a market woman was taking home in her basket a good school "family" cake. On finding that duty would amount to as much as the price of the cake itself, she declined to pay. "Refuse to pay," said the official, laying hands on the not uninviting looking confection, "but we confiscate the cake." "That'll not," said she, and snatching the cake out of his hands she retired across the border and, regardless of possible future consequences, proceeded to consume it to the last crumb.

Unsinkable Ships

An engineer named Liebetrau, in the Austrian province of Faraberg, claims to have invented an apparatus which can be installed in ships to make them unsinkable.

The invention consists of a device whereby the water which has entered through a leak is forced back again and the ship's buoyancy maintained. Experiments with a 12-foot boat were carried out on Lake Bodan. The boat in which the apparatus was installed was loaded with 600 pounds of stone and then sunk in 90 feet of water by opening a valve. The boat later rose to the surface, and remained afloat.

The engineer states that his invention can be installed in liners and controlled from the bridge.

Beauty Clay

So-called beauty clays are not composed of real clay. Most of the beauty clays on the market consist of fuller's earth with some tincture of benzoin. Fuller's earth is a soft earthy material resembling clay but not plastic. It occurs in nature as an impure hydrous aluminum silicate. Fuller's earth is also widely used to remove stains from such substances as cloth, wool and wallpaper. It is also used as a filler to clarify oils.—Exchange.

Methodists Increasing

In the United States there are 4,711,000 persons who have established active relations with the Methodist church through membership. This figure shows an increase of $1,400,000 since 1924. This can be taken as an indication of the Methodist church's growth in the United States. There are about 22,000 members in foreign areas.

Dempsey on Ineligible List

Is the Expected Action of New York
State Athletic Commission—Keams to do Nothing Further in Answering Challenge of Wills.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, March 23.—Jack Dempsey probably will be placed in the New York State Athletic Commission's ineligible list tomorrow because of his failure to accept the challenge of Harry Wills, it was indicated today. The commission's action will be taken after waiting a prescribed fifteen days for the heavyweight champion to answer the defiance of the colored challenger.

If Dempsey is placed under the ban, he will have company in Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue, respectively welterweight and light heavyweight champions, who likewise have been barred here because they declined to accept matches from challengers officially recognized by the board.

That Jack Keams intends to do nothing further in the matter was indicated by his attitude today. He said he considered that he had made answer in his recent letter to the board, pointing out that Dempsey had accepted Wills's challenge three years ago but that the match was quashed by the commission itself.

This letter has not satisfied the board, it was declared today by

Famous Racers
In $65,000 Event

Winning Jockey Will Get $7,500 San Diego Home and Winning Horse
Silver Bucket at Croffroth Handicap.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Tia Juana, Mexico, March 23.—The piece de resistance of all American winter racing looms close at hand.
This is the sixth annual running of the Croffroth handicap at Tia Juana.

Just across the California line, and is the country's richest stake for horses of all ages, being worth approximately $65,000 cash for the winner.

The Croffroth is to western racing what the Kentucky derby is to the Blue Grass region—and of equal value. It is to be run Sunday, March 29, and is engaging the attention of racing fans throughout the country.

This added importance and popularity is due largely to the heavy increase in value of the stake. The first Croffroth handicap was for $5,000, but this year sees the purse raised to $50,000, with an additional $22,500
in entrance and starting fees.

Silver Bucket.
President "Sunny Jim" Croffroth, of the Jockey Club, has also announced a prize of a $7,500 home in San Diego to the jockey who pilots his mount under the wire a winner.

The winning thoroughbred will not be forgotten—a handsome silver drinking bucket will be his reward.

Fran San Francisco, Seattle, Denver, Salt Lake, Omaha, Chicago, Louisville, New Orleans and scores of other cities has come news that groups of business men who love horses are planning to spend Croffroth handicap week in Southern California.

Los Angeles alone is expected to contribute more than a third of the 35,000 crowd expected to pass through the turnstiles on the day of the big race. A wide, paved highway extending northward from the border city makes for ideal motoring.

Tia Juana being only four automobile hours from "Los."

Sixty-four thoroughbreds are el-ligible out of the 85 originally nominated for the race before last December 1, but the list of probable starters is not expected to exceed twenty.

Chilhowee, second to Black Gold in the Kentucky Derby last spring and winner of a half dozen stake races, recently arrived from New Orleans. He will likely be assigned top weight in the Croffroth. Chilhowee holds the American record for 1 1/4 miles, 1:48 4-5, and for 1 1/2 miles, 2:54 3-5. Trainer Knapp reports the horse in fine fettle.

Cherry Pie, from the Green Tree Stable of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, has been here all winter preparing for the race. Cherry Pie is holder of the American mile record of 1:35 2-5.

Phusla, from Dr. Macomber's Miramonte Stable, has been showing his heels to first water horses here this spring. Phusla was bought by Dr. Macomber for $100,000 and brought to America last summer.

He was runner-up to Ensign in point of money earning while the pair were two and three-year-olds in

AXE MURDER

John Archer, thirty-five, is being held by Baltimore police in connection with the alleged murder of his infant daughter, and an attack on her mother, Annie Pfeiffer, with an axe. Police, probing for a motive, learned that Archer had become intoxicated when the woman threatened to leave him. Neighbors are said to have told of frequent quarrels between the couple.

REINSTATE GREENLEAF IN BILLIARD LEAGUE RACE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, March 23.—Having notified the league officials that he was enroute to Minneapolis where he is scheduled to play Andrew St.
Jean this afternoon, Champion Ralph Greenleaf was declared today to have been reinstated as a contender in the national championship pocket billiard league race. Greenleaf, following a breakdown, was forced to discontinue his schedule of games and was dropped from the league when he failed to appear against Arthur Woods, of Syracuse.

The champion is virtually out of the running, however. Frank Taber-ski, former title holder, having piled up a commanding lead.

Alan Helfrich, Carl Christensen,
Charlie Paddock, Loren Murchison and Lloyd Hahn were named today as probable members of a team of American athletes, for which a tour of Scandinavian countries is being planned for this summer. The proposed tour, if conducted, will take place after the national championships in California in July. Paddock and Murchison, now on their way to the Orient, would join the main detachment in Europe, according to tentative plans.

Branch Rickey Predicts That His Team Will be Among Leaders in Runs Scored—Pitching Staff
Again Giving Trouble.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Stockton, Cal., March 23.—Branch Rickey today didn't claim to be a fortune teller, nor did he indicate that it was his custom to play solitaire, but after a thorough shuffling of the cards for 1925, he neatly cut the deck and turned up aces for the infield, outfield and behind the bat.

He announced that he was entirely satisfied with what he had uncovered for these departments, but as to the pitching staff, "well, that wasn't exactly a pleasant subject for discussion. In fact, Mr. Rickey showed an inclination to talk learnedly and at length on any and all subjects other than pitching.

Nor would he permit himself to be pinned down to a prediction as to St.
Louis probable standing among the clubs at the conclusion of the 1925 season. But he said:

"The experts choose to rank us as a second division club, drawing their conclusions from the dope. We hope to upset the experts this year.

"The club has hitting power.
When I say this, the fans naturally picture Hornsby. But we have other good hitters besides Hornsby. On that account, I will make the prediction that you will see the Cards among the leaders in runs scored at the end of the season.

"That naturally puts it up to pitching and the defense in general.
I just naturally dislike to discuss pitching, for it is this department that has kept the Cardinals out of a pennant for years. I believe my pitching will be improved this season. I look for Duster Mails to deliver in his turn and we have another fine prospect in Rhem, a young right hander."

Jessie Haines, Alan Sotheron, Ed
Dyer, Bill Sherdel and Johnny Stuart are the only veterans of the staff with whom Rickey plans to daily this year. Lee Dickerman, obtained from the Dodgers, will get another chance, however. This leaves a place or two open with Barnes, from Evansville; Clough from Fort Smith; Day from Muskegon; Hallahan from Kalamazoo, and Shields from Calais, Ind., still in the running. Shields and Clough are left handers, which may get them something or nothing.

Mike Gonzales is the leading catcher, with Roscoe Helm and Walter Schmidt, waited to the Cards from the Pirates, as chief assistants.
Vick is back again from Louisville,
but will have to show cause to Al-bool, up from Fort Smith.

In addition to Hornsby and Jim Bottomley, the rest of the infield will be picked from among Bill Freigan, Topper, Cooney and Therenow.
There are either weak hitters or weak fielders or both, but Rickey feels that he can get by with what he has.

Blades, Myers, Smith and Mueller are veteran outfielders who may or may not be displaced by Shinnery, up again from Toledo; Hefey from Houston, and Taylor Douthitt, the St.
Joe prospect.
